FROM BLACK:

1 INT. NORTHERN VIRGINIA SAVINGS & TRUST - DAY 1

An ordinary business day in an ordinary bank. A few CUSTOMERS in line or at the counter, including Marine Corporal GEORGE LOOMIS, 20s and BILL RANIER, 30s. Bank Manager ELIZABETH BAYARDO, late 40s, behind the counter with teller GRACE PENLAND, 20s.

A BRINKS DRIVER, EDDIE BANASEK, early 40s, exits the counting room with RUDY VITTORIO, 60s, a friendly-faced bank guard. Rudy wears a standard SECURITY UNIFORM, and a SIDEARM that for all appearances has never left its holster.

BANASEK

(to Rudy)

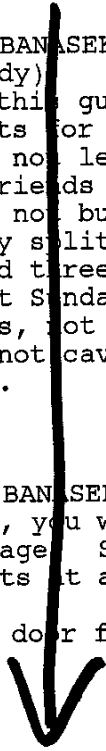

So I tell this guy there are three Commandments for married men: One, thou shalt not let your wife decide who your friends should be; two, thou shalt not buckle to a fifty/fifty split in household chores; and three, thou shalt never forget that Sunday is for sports - not picnics, not visiting the in-laws, and not caveng on Commandment number two.

BANASEK (cont'd)

I tell him, you wanna be happy in your marriage. Stick to these Commandments at all costs.

Rudy opens the front door for Banasek to exit.

Eddie?

BANASEK

Nah, didn't wanna disillusion him.

As Banasek exits, a young kid, TOMMY PAIGE, 7, darts between Rudy and the door ahead of his mother, JENNY PAIGE, 30s. As he squeezes through, Tommy inadvertently SPLASHES Rudy with a SLURPEE.

JENNY

Tommy! Careful! Not so fast--
(sees the stain on Rudy's shirt)
Oh, I'm so sorry.
(to Tommy)
I told you to be careful.

RUDY

Not a problem, ma'am.

Rudy forces a smile. Kids.

Jenny and Tommy head for the counter. Rudy heads toward the restroom.

~~RUDY (cont'd)~~

~~...You'll find your fortune,
Fallin' all over town..~~

~~Rudy tosses the paper towel in the garbage can, straightens his tie in the mirror.~~
