54 INT. SKY DECK, DIAMOND OF THE SEAS -- DAY

54

Max casually strolls the Sky Deck. Passengers leap into the pool, climb the artificial rock-climbing wall, play volleyball.

Max passes the large ballroom. A sign outside reads: THEME PARTY SATURDAY NIGHT, KING NEPTUNE'S UNDERSEA BALL.

55 INT. DIAMOND OF THE SEAS, GEM EXHIBIT ROOM -- DAY

GUIDE

The centerpiece of our exhibit...

The magnificent Napoleon Diamond rests on a large stand in a glass display case at the center of a large octagonal room.

Near the display, there's a large portrait of Napoleon holding his diamond-studded sword.

GUIDE (CONT'D)

Napoleon set three fabulous diamonds into the hilt of his sword. After his defeat, they were pried out and dispersed around the globe. This is one of the rare occasions the last remaining diamond is on public display...

(moving on)

And next we have some rare South African gems...

Stop

The tour moves on, revealing, behind them -- Max. He stares at the Napoleon Diamond, deep in thought.

STAN (O.S.)

Cute little rock.

Stan comes up behind Max, takes in the glorious diamond also.

STAN (CONT'D)

Couldn't stay away, huh?

MAX

Hey, I wouldn't even be here if you hadn't showed me that brochure.

He can't take his eyes off the diamond.

MAX (CONT'D)

It's lucky for you I don't need the money.
